Created in 2008 by Zoo Le Pal, the 'Le Pal Nature Foundation' has the vocation to 'conserve the biodiversity all over the world' and supports conservation projects in France and abroad. One of these projects is 'Projet Primates France', which develops educational programs to alert the public about the risk of the disappearance of different primate species. They also assist the "Chimpanzee Conservation Center", a chimpanzee sanctuary and rehabilitation project in Guinea, West Africa. The center rehabilitates and cares for rescued chimpanzees who have been captured to be sold as pets after their mothers were killed for bush meat. The ultimate goal is to release these animals back into the wild.
