

ZOO HEIDELBERG

Vacancy

Tiergarten Heidelberg gGmbH, with about 500.000 visitors annually, is a continuously developing education and conservation organisation. Further tasks of the non-profit institution are research and recreation.

Heidelberg zoo is looking for a

Zoo keeper

Full-time

in the bird department.

Heidelberg zoo has a long tradition in aviculture, and achieved many world's first breeding successes. The department has a diverse and interesting collection of 77 species, including rare and delicate bird species like rufous hornbill, Toco toucans and several species of songbirds. The department consists of lakes with cranes, flamingos and other waterbirds, combined indoor and outdoor aviaries for tropical birds, large walk-through aviaries and an area with European bird species. The department also cares for several species of small mammals, like sloth, binturong and Asian small-clawed otter.

Do you already have some experience in keeping and breeding birds? Do you like to focus on creating natural habitats and providing enrichment for the animals you care for? Are you a reliant team-player, who likes to work in a zoo that values your contribution? Then Heidelberg zoo has just the right job for you! A young, dedicated team crazy about aviculture awaits you.

Please send you application to

Tiergarten Heidelberg gGmbH, Tiergartenstraße 3, 69120 Heidelberg

oder

per E-Mail an: Corinna.Mueller@Heidelberg.de

The vacancy is open until February 11.

We offer a great job opportunity in a rapidly developing zoo in one of Germany's most beautiful cities. The wage is based on wage agreements of public service, there are additional retirement provisions, several benefits like a job ticket for public transport, and you can bring your dog to work. We offer a flexible work schedule and many opportunities for professional development.