

Zoo Leipzig has a broad and diverse offering which includes animal welfare and husbandry, species conservation, education as well as immersive visitor experiences. We are well on the way to becoming a Zoo of the future. Our zoo accommodates about 850 animal species and subspecies and is among the most renowned and modern zoos in the world. In our zoo you can experience the unique ape-world Pongoland, where all the great apes are housed together under one roof, or Europe's largest individual population of sloth bears. With the addition in 2011 of Gondwanaland, a fascinating tropical experience world the size of two football pitches, you can step inside a tropical rain forest right in the middle of the city of Leipzig.

We invite you to help shape Zoo Leipzig as we are looking for a

Senior Curator

who will be responsible for the development, delivery and ongoing management of all commercial activities within the Animal Department. The successful candidate will formulate and implement strategy which aligns the animal department with the group's commercial objectives, whilst ensuring the continuation of the department's exemplary standards for animal welfare, health and husbandry, visitor experience and innovation.

The main focus of the position will be on our following animal areas: Founder's Garden, the Koala exhibit as well as our Tropical world Gondwanaland.

To view the entire vacancy information and the required skills, duties & responsibilities, please visit the vacancies section of our website at

<https://www.zoo-leipzig.de/jobs/stellenangebote/seniorkurator-in/>

Please submit your complete application pack including your salary expectations and earliest start date by 26.03.2019 preferably by email to bewerbungen@zoo-leipzig.de